Professional Training Delivery Agreement

This agreement records the arrangement between the commissioning organization and the training provider for the design and delivery of a professional development programme over 12 months. It sets out the scope of instruction, the schedule of 24 sessions across 12 weeks, the obligations of each party, and the standards by which satisfactory completion is judged. Both parties confirm they have authority to enter this arrangement and that the terms below reflect their agreed understanding.

The provider shall design and deliver a structured programme covering the agreed competency areas, comprising 24 facilitated sessions and 48 teaching hours in total. Delivery may occur at up to 4 designated sites or through equivalent remote channels where the parties agree in writing. Any material expansion of subject coverage, additional cohorts, or supplementary site deployments requires a written variation signed by both parties before work begins.

A.1 Programme Design and Curriculum

The curriculum shall be built from a documented needs analysis and mapped to the competency framework supplied by the commissioning organization. Learning outcomes, session plans, and assessment instruments must be submitted for review before delivery begins. The provider retains editorial control over instructional method while ensuring alignment with the agreed outcomes and the professional standards applicable to the participants' roles.

Supporting records are presented in Table 4.

A.1.1 Learning Outcomes and Assessment Design

Each module shall state measurable learning outcomes and the evidence that will demonstrate achievement. Assessment instruments must be valid for the stated outcomes, applied consistently across cohorts, and moderated by a second qualified assessor. The provider shall retain assessment records for the period required by the commissioning organization's policy and make them available on reasonable request.

A.1.1.1 Formative and Summative Components

The programme shall combine formative activities that give participants feedback during instruction with summative assessments that determine final achievement. Formative tasks may include structured practice, peer review, and facilitator observation; summative tasks shall be specified in advance with published criteria. Weighting between components must be disclosed to participants at the start of each module.

A.1.1.2 Moderation and Quality Assurance

A moderation process shall verify that assessor judgements are consistent and defensible. A sample of assessments, proportionate to cohort size and no smaller than the provider's published standard, shall be independently reviewed. Where moderation identifies inconsistency, the provider shall adjust results and document the corrective action taken before issuing final records.

A.1.2 Curriculum Review and Version Control

All curriculum materials shall be version-controlled, with each revision dated and attributed to an authorized reviewer. The provider shall conduct a scheduled review at least once during the term and incorporate feedback from participants and the commissioning organization. Superseded materials must be withdrawn from use so that participants are not assessed against conflicting criteria.

A.2 Participant Eligibility and Enrolment

The commissioning organization shall nominate participants who meet the stated prerequisite knowledge and confirm their availability for the scheduled sessions. The provider shall verify eligibility before enrolment and notify the commissioning organization of any nominee who does not meet the prerequisites. Substitutions are permitted with reasonable notice provided the replacement satisfies the same eligibility requirements.

B Delivery Schedule and Obligations

The programme shall be delivered over 12 weeks in accordance with the schedule annexed to this agreement. The provider shall supply qualified facilitators, learning materials, and assessment administration; the commissioning organization shall supply suitable venues or platform access, participant release time, and timely decisions on nominations. Neither party shall be liable for delay caused by the other's failure to perform its obligations.

Supporting records are presented in Table 5.

B.1 Scheduling, Attendance and Rescheduling

Sessions shall follow the agreed timetable, and the provider shall give reasonable notice of any necessary change. Participants are expected to attend all scheduled sessions; where absence exceeds the published threshold, the provider shall offer a catch-up arrangement or record the module as incomplete. Rescheduling requested by the commissioning organization is subject to facilitator availability and may attract a reasonable administrative charge.

B.1.1 Attendance Records and Completion Criteria

The provider shall maintain attendance records for every session and reconcile them against enrolment data before final results are issued. A participant is deemed to have completed the programme only where attendance and assessment requirements are both satisfied. Records of completion shall be issued within a reasonable period after the final assessment and retained for audit purposes.

B.1.1.1 Minimum Attendance Threshold

Participants must attend at least the published proportion of scheduled sessions to remain eligible for summative assessment. The provider shall publish this threshold before enrolment and apply it uniformly. Absences supported by documented exceptional circumstances may be considered under the provider's mitigation procedure, with the outcome recorded and communicated to the participant.

B.1.1.2 Certification and Records

Certificates shall state the programme title, the participant's name, the completion date, and the awarding body where applicable. The provider shall issue certificates only after moderation is complete and all completion criteria are verified. Duplicate certificates may be issued on written request, and the provider shall maintain a register linking each certificate to its supporting assessment record.

B.1.2 Facilitator Qualifications and Substitution

Facilitators assigned to the programme must hold relevant subject expertise and demonstrated instructional experience. The provider shall notify the commissioning organization of any proposed substitution and confirm that the replacement meets equivalent standards. Persistent facilitator underperformance identified through participant feedback shall be addressed through the provider's performance management process.

B.2 Fees, Invoicing and Payment Terms

Fees for the programme shall be invoiced in accordance with the payment schedule agreed by the parties, with each invoice identifying the services delivered. The commissioning organization shall pay undisputed invoices within the stated period and may withhold disputed amounts pending resolution. The provider shall give written notice of any fee adjustment before it takes effect.

Where a session is delivered remotely, the provider should confirm platform access, recording consent, and participant connectivity in advance so that instructional time is not lost to technical difficulties.

Attendance data should be reconciled against enrolment records before completion decisions are finalized, since discrepancies discovered later are materially harder to resolve fairly.

Any verbal instruction that changes scope, schedule, or assessment weighting should be confirmed in writing within a short period so that the record reflects what was actually agreed.

Participants who join late in the programme may require a documented induction covering prior content, assessment expectations, and the attendance threshold applicable to their enrolment.

The provider should retain facilitator credentials and continuing development records, as these are commonly requested when the commissioning organization conducts a supplier assurance review.
